I prefer this kind of wooly, heavy, red blanket.
Incidentally, this is the third of its type.

Mine's a soft knit blanket the color of bread.
It's last year's hip new color.
This blue blanket that I've had forever is a little rough to the touch...
...but it hugs my body and it kind of feels like I'm sleeping on a soft bed of grass.
You're right!
Nazeni, yours is like a carpet.

When I take a bath, I have it at 109 degrees and put some baking soda in.
I like milk baths.
I like my bath water pretty hot with salt.
I also put in some dried orange peels.
So, what kind of pillows do you guys like?
